There are pla-ces I re-mem-ber— all my li—i-ife though some have— changed
Some for-e—ver not for bet-ter— some have go—o-one and some re-main—

All these pla—ces have their mo-ments— with lovers and friends I still can re—call
Some are dead and some are liv-ing— In my—y-y-y life I've loved them all—

But of all these friends and lov-ers— there is no—o-one com-pares with you—
And these memo-ries lose their mean-ing— when I think—of love— as some-thing new

Though I know I'll never lose af-fection— for people and things— that went be-fore—
I know I'll often stop and think a-bout them. In my—y-y-y life I love you— more
